District May Have 1,000 C. E. at Big Convention

BALTIMORE, Md., July 6.—A heavy downpour of rain, following a cloud-burst near Baltimore late yesterday afternoon, causing a portion of the central section of the city, interfered somewhat with this morning's attendance at the International Christian Endeavor convention, which opened here yesterday.

Sessions were held in various churches between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning, at which various phases of the society's work were discussed. Later the delegates assembled in the Fifth Regiment Armory, and the topic, "The Boys and Girls for Christ and the Church," was discussed.

The District of Columbia delegates have been taking a prominent part in the sessions. There were many additions to the District's delegation this morning, visitors from Washington arriving on every train and registering at the Associated Congregational Church, which is the headquarters of the District Union. The Washingtonians attended devotional services at the church early this morning, after which many went sight-seeing, despite the rain. Many visited the district which was flooded last night by the overflowing of Jones Falls.

A delegation of Junior Endeavorers from the Capital is expected this afternoon, to attend the Junior rally, to be held at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark has been re-elected president of the society. He will be unable to attend any of the sessions owing to illness.

SUICIDE FOUND IN LOCAL HOTEL

Believed to Be From Baltimore, Md.

Determined to end his existence, a man who registered at the Engle Hotel, New Jersey avenue and O street north, near the city hall, Baltimore, closed both the windows of his room, stopped up the keyhole of the door with a cigarette paper, turned on the gas without lighting it and threw himself upon the bed this morning to await death.

About 11 o'clock, the lifeless body, rigid but still warm, was found by Edward Kelley, the clerk of the hotel. Coroner Nevitt was informed and after an investigation, gave a certificate of death by suicide.

The police believe the man registered under a fictitious name. In order to hide his identity, he took up every letter and note he had in his pockets. The small bits were thrown into the wash bowl on the washstand, and water poured over them so that the ink would be blurred. It is believed his name was Philip Holstein, a cigar salesman for J. W. Strauss, of Baltimore. His address is believed to have been 2223 Madison avenue, Baltimore.

About 5:30 o'clock yesterday the man, who was well dressed, walked from the Baltimore and Ohio station to the Engle, which is directly across the street. He did not say a word to any one, and the pen in his hand, registered and was shown to room 26, on the top floor, by a bellboy.

Door Broken Open. That was the last seen of him alive. About 11 o'clock this morning Ella Ellis, the colored servant in the hotel, detected the odor of gas in the hallway and informed Kelley, who traced the noxious fumes to room 26. Efforts were made to unlock the door, but it had to be broken open. Kelley examined the body and found that there was no heart beat or pulse. The man had on his underclothes and had evidently been dead but a short time.

The covers on the bed had not been pulled down, showing that he did not retire last night. Several newspapers and magazines were found in the room, and it is supposed that he read all night and committed suicide some time between 8 and 10 o'clock this morning. Kelley looked for papers by which the man could be identified, but could find nothing other than the card with the name of "J. W. Strauss, Balto., Md." on it. An hour after the body was found in the room Kelley was called up over the telephone by a woman, who said she was the wife of Philip Holstein, of 2223 Madison avenue, Baltimore, and wanted to know if he had arrived at the hotel last night. After consulting the register Kelley informed her that no such person was there.

The woman then described Holstein, saying that he was fifty years old, and a cigar salesman for J. W. Strauss, of Baltimore. The description fitted the dead man. She thought it was her husband and tried to prove that he was the man inquired for by the woman.

Jupiter Pluvius Comes Like a Ton of Bricks

Washington Visited Last Night by Biggest Rainfall of Short Duration in Twenty Years—Storm Ties Up Railways.

Jupiter Pluvius lost his temper last night and came down on poor unsuspecting Washington like a ton of bricks. The worst rainstorm the city has experienced in many years played havoc with the streets, drove scores of persons seeking a cool breeze into their homes, and for an hour, to the rumble of thunder and flash of lightning, the rain fell in torrents.

The storm was purely local, not having had its generation in any one of the great storms which have been visiting various sections of the country. It was so far local that certain sections of Washington were not as much affected as others and consequently the inconveniences which it brought one place were not suffered in others.

In the eastern section of the city, for instance, on Capitol Hill, the storm was not nearly so severe as in the extreme northwest. On Capitol Hill there was but a series of good, refreshing showers, none of which lasted for very long.

Almost Unprecedented Rainfall.

The northwest, however, was the objective point for the wrath of Mr. Pluvius. For an hour the rain came down with all its force until at 9 o'clock the fast registered 4.65 inches, something almost unprecedented in Washington. It was the greatest rainstorm in twenty years—that is, of an hour's duration—and much damage was done in various ways.

The storm tied up street railways for more than an hour, and in a few sections of the city where excavations are being made for new buildings it swept the dirt almost into the houses and piled it up sometimes a foot high.

The stream of water rushing down Fourteenth street was so great that the catch basins could not receive and hold it. As a result of this the water quickly filled the conduits and stopped the current. Cars were lined up and could not again be operated until the water drained.

Excursionists Get Wet.

In addition to these occurrences there were many other inconveniences experienced by residents of Washington. The extreme heat of the day induced many to go for a sail down the river on the regular excursion steamers. The storm, after sweeping over Washington, followed the example of many of its predecessors, and went skating down the river after the excursionists. The black clouds which gathered early here looked all the more menacing to the people down the river, but no damage was done, other than giving many a cold soul a wholesale drenching.

It was just a little before 7 o'clock that the clouds began to gather, and entirely disarranged the plans of anyone who had intended visiting the theater. There was not a corporal's guard out in consequence of the fact that black streak across the sky few persons had the courage to venture forth. Weather Bureau that Washington need not expect a severe storm in the near future. While the official forecast does not indicate the possibility of a severe storm, it was said this morning that there will be nothing more than a series of showers. Thus the forecast said, however, would likely keep up for several days.

Lightning Strikes House.

Lightning struck the home of Mrs. Sibbald, in Chevy Chase, and threatened for a few seconds to do even more damage than resulted. It was shortly before 8 o'clock that a terrific clap of thunder like a report from a cannon sounded through the house as the lightning struck the chimney in the kitchen.

Bricks were showered in every direction as they were literally torn from their place and the kitchen was filled with soot. Mrs. Sibbald happened to be in the kitchen and was warned the servants to move away from the stove. The thunder and lightning had been so sharp that the house was filled with a sense of dread. Scarcely had she done so when the terrific crash came and the lids of the stove were scattered all over the floor. Fortunately, no one was hurt but evidences of the severity of the shock were seen all over the house this morning in the promiscuous scattering of bricks and things which had been smashed during the storm.

SEVERAL MEN INJURED BY SCAFFOLD COLLAPSE

By the collapse of a scaffold around the building in course of construction at Half and I streets southwest yesterday afternoon, Reid Henderson, colored, thirty-two years old, of 215 Virginia avenue southeast; Alfred Henderson, colored, forty-two years old, and Lewis Garrett, colored, forty-five years old, of 223 Union street southwest, were injured so badly that it was necessary to send them to the Emergency Hospital for treatment. It is not believed that any of them will die.

About twelve bricklayers, hodcarriers and general laborers were standing on the platform at the time it broke. It is believed the weight proved too great for the scaffold, which was built on the Fourth and Harbor piers, and from the scene of the accident, and as hurrying the injured to the hospital.

JURY SAYS HOLMES SHOT IN SELF-DEFENSE

A coroner's jury held an inquest in the District Morgue yesterday over the remains of George Bell, a negro who was shot and killed by Hilley B. Holmes, a negro cavalryman from the Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, about a month ago and returned a verdict of self-defense. Holmes, who has been in custody since the shooting, was released and will be sent to the Federal House of Detention at once for his post.

Campbell Carrying and Samuel Truitt appeared as counsel for the defendant.

FROM THE EDITOR. He Forgot That He Had a Stomach.

Talking of food, there is probably no professional man subjected to a greater, more wearing mental strain than the responsible editor of a modern newspaper.

To keep his mental faculties constantly in good working order, the editor must keep his physical power up to the highest rate of efficiency. Nothing will so quickly upset the whole system as badly selected food and a disordered stomach. It therefore follows that he should have a right food, which can be readily assimilated, and which furnishes true brain nourishment. "My personal experience in the use of Grape-Nuts and Postum Food Coffee," writes a Philadelphia editor, "so exactly agrees with your advertised claim as to their merits that any further exposition in that direction would seem as to me superfluous. They have benefited me so much, however, during the five years that I have used them, that I do not feel justified in withholding my testimony."

"General 'high living' with all that the expression implies as to a generous table, brought about indigestion, in my case, with restlessness at night, and lassitude in the morning, accompanied by various pains and distressing sensations during working hours. I was diagnosed the condition as 'catarrh of the stomach,' and prescribed various medicines, which did me no good. I finally 'threw physics' to the winds, gave up tea and coffee and heavy meat dishes, and adopted Grape-Nuts and Postum Food Coffee as the chief articles of my diet. "I can conscientiously say, and I wish to say it with all the emphasis possible to the English language, that they have benefited me more than any other food that ever came on my table. My experience is that the Grape-Nuts has steadied and strengthened both brain and nerves to a most positive degree. How it does it, I cannot say, but I know that after breakfasting on Grape-Nuts food one actually forgets he has a stomach, let alone 'stomach trouble.' It is, in my opinion, the most beneficial as well as the most economical food on the market, and has absolutely no 'Name Brand' value. Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason.

RELIGIOUS ORDERS ANGRY WITH POPE

Pius X Forbade Renting of Rooms to Tourists.

WAS A PAYING BUSINESS

Orders May Go Bankrupt, as They Hired Buildings With Which to Rival Hotels.

(Special Copyright Cable.) PARIS, July 6.—Because Pope Pius has forbidden them to add to their funds by renting rooms to tourists, the members of religious orders in Rome are bitter against his holiness.

The number of tourists in Rome has been great this spring and a number of congregations saw their advantage in renting rooms to those who did not care to pay the stiff rates charged by the hotels.

This greatly cut down the income of the hotels, and a number of hotel owners sent a petition to the Pope asking him to come to their assistance. The result was an order from the Pope in which he explained to the religious orders that this combination of business and religion was hardly consistent with the dignity of the Catholic Church. As several of the congregations have taken long leases on villas, cottages and palaces in the hope of increasing their revenues, they are now in a dilemma. If they obey the orders of the Pope, they are certain of severe punishment, while if they do, they are equally sure of going bankrupt.

New Evidence Obtained About Equitable Deals

Jerome's Investigation Now Said to Connect Mismanaged Society With the Floating of the Shipbuilding Trust.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The criminal prosecutions now in process of development against the men concerned in the mismanagement of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, threaten widespread ramifications.

Evidence is accumulating of misuses of the Equitable funds other than those which have already been revealed.

The district attorney's office during Mr. Jerome's absence in the West is keeping absolutely secret what additional evidence has been obtained, but there is reason to believe that before another week has passed the July grand jury will begin its examination of witnesses and that within two weeks indictments will begin to be returned.

One of the ramifications of Mr. Jerome's investigation of the Equitable affairs will lead, it is now announced, to his making a new inquiry into the floating of the United States Shipbuilding Company, commonly known as the Shipbuilding trust. It is expected that it will be made the basis of several criminal actions.

Speculation With Funds.

The new evidence gathered is reported also to have furnished proof of stock speculations on margins by some of the former officers of the Equitable with the funds of the policyholders. This is a criminal offense.

Gage E. Tarbell, second vice president of the Equitable, is now looked upon as the active ally of the district attorney. James H. Hyde, it is said today, has decided to postpone his plans for European trip, despite the reply of Mr. Jerome to his inquiry that there was no objection to a little summer voyage provided he would return if needed.

In a complaint filed with Attorney General Mayer, Senator Edgar F. Brickett, of Stratford, seeks partly to overthrow the present management of the Equitable. The senator charges that every man in the Equitable directorate who does not own five shares of stock is guilty of having "usurped an office in a domestic corporation. He asks the attorney general to enforce the criminal penalty and oust the culprits from the positions.

Receivership Proposed.

Within ten days, it is said, an application will be made to the proper court for the appointment of a receiver to wind up the affairs of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

This action will be taken in behalf of a large number of policyholders by one of the best known law firms of this city and the disclosures that the $75,000,000 surplus of the society belongs under an obscure section of the insurance law to the holders of deferred dividend policies.

VATICAN TITLES NOW RECOGNIZED

Some Think It Step to Further Reconciliation.

POPE'S DESIRE FOR PEACE

Church Circles Watching Possible Developments With Keenest Interest. Decision of Heraldic Court.

(Special Copyright Cable.) ROME, July 6.—High church circles are discussing with interest the recent decision of the Italian heraldic court to give formal recognition to the titles of nobility conferred by the Vatican. The main question discussed is whether this indicates that the negotiations for an understanding between the Vatican and the Quirinal has reached a more advanced stage than had been generally believed.

It has been no secret that Pope Pius from the beginning of his pontificate has been strongly disposed to resume relations with the Italian government, which would free him from a tiresome Vatican confinement. The pope has been particularly irritable to some of his holiness. Stories have been current for months to the effect that he proposes to spend some part of the present summer outside of Rome.

There is a disposition to believe that this action in regard to papal titles is the forerunner of a more important announcement, which may mean the tacit, if not the explicit, surrender by the Pope of his claims to temporary sovereignty. The action of the heraldic court is of peculiar interest to Americans, because of the large number of titles which have been conferred by the Pope on Americans for their work in the interests of the church and humanity. These titles will now have the substantial approval of the Italian government.
